The Christians in Lebanon taught us ...

Mike Burnard

We were deeply touched by the love, hospitality and sweetness of all who received us during our recent visit to Lebanon. The faith, boldness and servanthood of those we met made me rethink my faith and prompted this question: "Isn't it time we change how we see Christianity?" (Think about Peter in Acts 11:1-18 where he had to change the way he saw his theology in preparation for his going to the house of the Gentile centurion, Cornelius.)

The Christians in Lebanon taught us that:

- instead of being defenders of faith, we need to be expressions of faith.
- instead of being judges, we need to be witnesses.
- instead of telling people how to live, we need to show people how to love.
- instead of pointing people to hell, we need to point people to heaven.
- instead of making people fear hell, we need to make people fall in love with Christ.

Thank you, dear Habibi's, for allowing us to taste and see that the Lord is good!

Isn't it time we change how we see Christianity?
